

Newspaper Article

- Many periodical articles do not provide the author's name. Omit the author of unsigned articles in periodical citations.
- Newspapers are published on a regular basis, the date of a periodical identifies the issue. Therefore, the title of the periodical is followed not by a period but the date of the issue.
- MLA dates are stated in International Date Format: Day Month Year (without commas). Omit the day of the month if it is not a weekly or daily magazine.
- Some newspapers publish regional or late editions with supplemental or different articles. If appropriate, the edition is referenced in the citation.
- If page numbers are not consecutive use a plus sign to denote this, otherwise use the dash [23-45].

Example—

Young, Jason. "Most Viewed Theater Articles of 2006."
New York Times 5 Jan. 2007, late ed.: C1+.
