Internet Webpage, Stand Alone

- This citation provides an example of a webpage that sits alone and is not a part of a group of related webpages on a related topic.
- The newest edition of MLA allows users to omit the URL (webaddress). Your librarian believes the URL is the most accurate identification of the webpage and CMS students are required to include the URL at the end of the citation.
- Exception: Omit URLs for items in Internet websites or databases that are un-meaningful and very long.
- The URL is added as a supplement to the end of the citation and is enclosed in brackets with a period following the closing bracket. See example citation below.
- Break URLs after the slash closest to the end of the line it is on.
- Avoid typing URLs. Copying and Pasting is recommended.
- Automatic formatting in MS Word removes the brackets when you finish typing the URL. If this happens click the [delete] button one time and the brackets should reappear.

Example—
Make sure you can see the space between parts.
